1999. Prophecies are rampant, and one of them is about to be fulfilled.

But which?

That's not the only problem Tom must solve as he finds himself re-enacting a John Buchan adventure. He's in a race against time – and the candy bars are running out...

“A Hitchcockian shocker with a satirical edge for the virtual age; a twisted, knowing version of The Thirty-Nine Steps, relocated to Wales on the eve of millennium madness; and a conspiracy thriller which puts the world we think we live in into the blender. What emerges is a vision that's dementedly, entertainingly all too plausible”

Michael Eaton, screenwriter (Shipman, Shoot to Kill, Why Lockerbie?)

“Thoroughly enjoyable” Peter Guttridge, crime critic for The Observer

“Most entertaining” Alan Mahar, Tindal Street Press
